23rd March 2021
2.00pm on Microsoft Teams

What can the 'Leaves of Southwell' teach us about the socio-economic, cultural, and natural history In England at the time the Chapter House was built?

The building of the Chapter House in Southwell (1290-1310) coincided with an incredible period of naturalistic carvings that was sweeping through Europe. In this talk, we will explore what life might have been like in Medieval England at the end of 13th century.
