

MARTIN STANCLIFFE was the Minster Architect until replaced by Nicholas Rank in ----. He was busy with stone work (especially the conservation of the Chapter House) and with the glass in the transepts. He designed the new choir stalls in the nave, but his crowning achievement was his conception of the re-glazing of the Great West Window, for which Patrick Reyntiens did the designs.