and Application Form

History

Southwell Minster is of Saxon origin and was founded as a collegiate church in the tenth century. In 1108 Archbishop Gerard put in process the rebuilding of this Anglo-Saxon church and Southwell Minster was created. The church was elevated to cathedral status with the creation of the Diocese of Southwell in 1884 and is now the Cathedral of Nottinghamshire.

The Cathedral stands adjacent to the ruined Archbishop of York's Palace, which had a major renovation in 2013, courtesy of a £1.5 million grant from the Heritage Lottery Fund. The State Chamber of the original palace has remained wonderfully preserved, and acts as a concert venue for the Cathedral. The music department below has undergone a complete renovation, including an addition of two new rehearsal rooms, an Organ Scholar flat and a new music library.

A choir has existed at Southwell for over 900 years; the current Cathedral Choir consists of Boy and Girl Choristers, and adult Lay Clerks. Choristers have always been drawn from the Minster School—now a voluntary aided Church of England academy complete with a junior school for the education of the younger Choristers and other musically gifted children; it is also part of the Choir Schools' Association. A Girls' Choir was added in 2005 to enhance the worship at the Cathedral, which was fully integrated into the Cathedral Choir in 2019; there are now equal opportunities available for both boy and girl Choristers. In 2019 the Cathedral invested in a complete new set of cassocks and surplices as to have one style and colour for the Boy Choristers, Girl Choristers, Lay Clerks, Organists and Clergy.

Locality

Originally a Roman settlement, Southwell is a historic town with some 7,500 residents and lies on the River Greet. The town boasts a number of impressive buildings, including multiple Georgian prebendal houses, an old workhouse (now owned by the National Trust), a racecourse, independent shops and restaurants, and many old taverns. Notable events include the Southwell Music Festival and the Gate to Southwell Folk Festival.

There are good transport links by bus to Newark (20 minutes) and Nottingham (40 minutes). Regular trains from Newark to London take 1 hour 20 minutes.

The Choirs

Southwell Minster has a choral tradition stretching back over 900 years and currently comprises Boy Choristers, Girl Choristers, Lay Clerks—six Lay Clerks and six Auxiliary Lay Clerks—and the Minster Chorale. Between them, the Boy and Girl Choristers rehearse and sing services on six days of the week, including Evensong on their own on Monday and Tuesday. The Lay Clerks sing with the Choristers from Thursday until Sunday, and for Feast Days and Holy Days at other times. The Cathedral Choir's repertoire is large and aims to include the best of all eras, from Byrd and Palestrina through to MacMillan and Panufnik, with much in between. They regularly broadcast and record, and foreign tours are undertaken frequently.

The Rector Chori is responsible for both the Boy Choristers and the Girl Choristers. The Assistant Director of Music is the principal accompanist for the Cathedral Choir, while the Organ Scholar plays for services as required, for any combination of Choristers and Lay Clerks, and for the Minster Chorale. The Minster Chorale, the Cathedral's voluntary choir, is directed by the Assistant Director of Music, and sings at Cathedral liturgies as necessary, complementing the Cathedral Choir's duties. All the members of the music foundation form a singularly warm and welcoming group; an incoming Organ Scholar would be assured of becoming a member of a happy and sociable team of distinction.

Duties of the Post

Southwell Minster is offering an Organ Scholarship to a player of suitable achievement and potential to start in September 2027. The award is aimed either at a gap year candidate (filling a year between school and university) or at a university/college leaver wishing to embark on a cathedral career and needing more experience, in which case the scholarship may be tenable for a second year. Experience of accompanying Anglican repertoire and working with both adult singers and young Choristers is desirable.

The Organ Scholar's duties include:

- Accompanying the Cathedral Choir as directed. The amount of accompaniment expected will depend on the incumbent's skill and experience, and will build as the months go by.
- Accompanying (and sometimes conducting) the Minster Chorale
- On occasion conducting the Cathedral Choir, as directed
- Helping supervise Chorister pick-up from school, 'Chorister Club' and tea
- Taking a lead in the training of the Junior Choristers, and also being involved in working with the full Choristers from time to time
- Assisting with the administrative duties of the Music Department
- Being the principal librarian—the daily task of getting out and putting away music from the Choir Library falls to the Organ Scholar, as does binding and labelling new copies. There is a fully equipped office in the Choir Library, usefully adjacent to the Organ Scholar's flat.

- The Organ Scholar will be invited to run the West Trent Churches Choir, a group comprising singers from local churches, singing at a number of events in the West Trent Benefice. Remuneration of a modest level is given for this duty, which normally comprises bi-weekly rehearsals and a small number of services during term time.
- The Organ Scholar's hours of work are 30 hours per week
- External professional engagements are considered part of the Organ Scholar's development and are encouraged, by arrangement with colleagues

The standard of playing for which we are looking would be no less than ABRSM Grade 8 merit/distinction, with a view possibly to studying for an external diploma such as ARCO during the year. Good sight-reading and extemporisation are vital. A broad musical outlook will be hoped for, including an active and informed interest in the Cathedral choral repertoire.

The Instruments

Southwell Minster is blessed to have four organs on campus. In the Song School a two-manual pipe organ by Grant, Degens & Bradbeer (refurbished 2014) is available as a practice instrument. A chamber organ by the same company is located in the Cathedral. The Cathedral also boasts two fine cathedral organs, one for the Quire and one for the Nave.

The 1995 Nicholson Screen Organ is the principal instrument, and is used for all services in the Quire. 2024 saw a comprehensive cleaning and overhaul of the instrument by Nicholson, including a new memory system.
